Home, Frontier, and Foreign Missionary Society was separated into The Foreign Missionary Society of the United Brethren in Christ and The Home Missionary Society of the United Brethren in Christ. Each department is now being presented separately on its merits to our people. This change is meeting with universal favor. An educational campaign has been inaugurated to enlist every member of the church in the interests of foreign missions. A weekly, and in some cases a monthly, system of offerings to missions is being introduced, and already some congregations have increased their offerings to foreign missions more than two hundred per cent. Sixteen local churches have each definitely decided to support a foreign parish this year. One thousand one hundred and fifty young people have been enrolled in the study of Daybreak in the Dark Continent during the last eight months; and 438 students in our colleges have been pursuing a similar study, forty-two of whom are volunteers for foreign service. The word that is most popular with us now is forward. From the beginning of our foreign missionary work there has been the most cordial cooperation with the work carried forward by the Congregational Church. At the second meeting of our missionary board, in July, 1855, the following resolution was approved: That a committee of two be sent to the annual meeting of the American Missionary Association to be held in Chicago, September 26, 1855, and that they are hereby authorized to enter...
